

Group-Project guidelines
End-Term Assessment (50%)
MGT 281, Business Negotiations

Submission deadline -30th April, 2026, 11:59 pm

As per DOM, the 50% of the course is assigned for end-term assessment. It is conducted and monitored by the course faculty member. The following guidelines were assigned to the students for the completion of group project submission.

Group Project Report Guidelines

1. Objective of the Group Project

The objective of the group project is to encourage students to reflect critically on their learning experience in the Business Negotiations course and demonstrate their understanding of negotiation concepts through analysis, reflection, and application.

Students are expected to connect theoretical concepts learned in class with practical experiences, including role-plays, simulations, and case discussions conducted during the semester.

2. Group Formation

- Each group should consist of 4–5 members.
- All group members must contribute equally to the preparation and presentation.
- The report must include the names and registration numbers of all group members.

3. Report Structure

The report should be approximately 10-12 pages (typed, self-written-NOT AI-generated contents) and organized under the following sections.

1. Initial Interpretation of Negotiation Concepts

In this section, students should describe their initial understanding of negotiation before taking the course.

Students may address questions such as:

- What did you initially think negotiation meant?
- How did you believe negotiations usually worked?
- What assumptions did you have about power, persuasion, or authority in negotiations?

The purpose of this section is to show how your understanding evolved during the course.

2. Learning Approach Throughout the Module

This section should describe how the group approached learning during the course.

Students may discuss:

- Participation in lectures and class discussions
- Role-plays and negotiation simulations
- Group discussions and collaborative learning
- Analysis of negotiation cases
- Preparation strategies used before simulations

The focus should be on how the group engaged with the learning process.

3. Skills and Understanding Developed

Students should explain key negotiation concepts and skills learned during the course.

Possible topics include:

- Interests vs Positions
- BATNA (Best Alternative to a Negotiated Agreement)
- Reservation Value
- ZOPA (Zone of Possible Agreement)
- Anchoring and De-anchoring
- Communication and listening skills
- Value claiming vs value creation
- Negotiation tactics
- Influence principles
- Personality differences in negotiation

Students should not merely define concepts but explain how they understood and applied them.

4. Key Takeaways

This section should summarize the most important lessons learned from the course.

Students may discuss:

- Why preparation is important in negotiation
- The role of strategy and planning

- Importance of understanding interests
- Managing emotions and communication
- The role of collaboration and value creation
- Lessons learned from simulations and activities

The focus should be on practical insights gained from the course experience.

5. Overall Learning Experience

This section should provide a reflective summary of the group's overall experience in the course.

Students should reflect on:

- How their understanding of negotiation changed
- How the course influenced their thinking
- How negotiation skills can be applied in real life
- Personal or professional value gained from the course

Students may also discuss how the course helped them develop skills such as:

- teamwork
- communication
- strategic thinking
- decision making

4. Writing Expectations

Students should ensure that the report:

- Uses clear and simple language
- Demonstrates reflection rather than mere description
- Connects theory with practice
- Maintains logical structure and flow
- Is written collaboratively by the group

The report should avoid copying directly from lecture materials and instead focus on students' own understanding and experiences.

5. Formatting Guidelines

Students must follow the formatting instructions below:

- Length: 2–3 pages

- Font: Times New Roman
- Font Size: 12
- Spacing: 1.5 line spacing
- Alignment: Justified
- File Format: PDF or Word document
- Title Page: Include course name, group members' names, registration numbers, instructor name, and academic year.

6. Submission

- Reports must be submitted on time. Submission deadline -30th April, 2026, 11:59 pm
